Wide Range of Metal Packaging for Seafood

Glud & Marstrand is the world's third largest supplier of aluminium cans for the fish processing industry. We have decades of experience at developing, producing and selling metal packaging, and possess specialist expertise within metallurgy, production technology, product development and graphic design on metal.

Our wide standard product range comprises both tinplate and aluminium cans for retorted end uses. Glud & Marstrand also develops new and customized products. Our customer relations are based on long-lasting cooperation. This has given us a thorough understanding of the requirements and possibilities that exist within the fish processing industry.

We are therefore able to provide competent advice and inspiration for effective packaging, and subsequent implementation in our customers' production, ensuring that the new packaging is a good and profitable investment. And in case of problems – also at our customers' production lines – our technical service staff can provide on-site assistance and thus make sure that the production suffers as little as possible. ■
